DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim 7, drawn to a method of screening agents for promoting insulin production or insulin content.

Group II, claim 8, drawn to a process for manufacturing a pharmaceutical composition for promoting insulin production.

Group III, claim 9, drawn to an agent for promoting insulin production.

Group IV, claim 10, drawn to a method of treating a patient in need comprising administering a compound for promoting insulin production.

The inventions listed as Groups I, II, III, and IV do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the method of studying the action of pharmaceuticals in promoting insulin release is not novel. For example Fuhlendorff et al (Diabetes, March 1998) teach a method of screening multiple agents for their application in promoting insulin release. They teach that the compounds repaglinide and glibenclamide can be compared for their effect in stimulating insulin release from pancreatic β TC-3 cells. They teach that both compounds bind directly to β TC-3 cells, and stimulate insulin release (see Research Design and Methods: "Ligand binding experiments" and "Insulin Release", p. 345 col. 2 to p. 346, col. 1; see Results, p. 346, col. 2 to p. 347, for example). They also teach that the family of compounds called hypoglycemic sulfonylureas, of which glibenclamide is a member, have been used for decades to treat patients suffering from low insulin production (see Introduction, col. 2, first paragraph, for example).

Art Unit: 1657

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
